Be a Centurion

As a member you can make a further commitment to prayer, finance, faith and encouragement by becoming a Centurion.

"I tell you the truth; I have not found anyone in Israel with such great faith."
Luke 7:9

These were the words that Jesus used to describe the Centurion in Capernaum. The Bible tells us very little about this man. We know that he was a military Christian who cared for his men, loved and served his nation, was humble, generous in supporting his local ministry, decisive, and had a very simple but rock-steady faith.

The ADF needs Christians like this Centurion!

In the Forces and a Christian . . .

is it possible?

With thanks to the Soldiers & Airmen's Readers Association, UK

On this matter, there are many views on what the Bible says. Within the beatitudes it says 'Blessed are the peacemakers for theirs is the Kingdom of God.' Mt 5.9 Some people may draw on this beatitude to display peaceful pacifist behaviour in all circumstances. Others would maintain that use of force is permissible in issues of national and international security as righteousness brings honour to a nation. The greatest challenge facing any service person is the possibility of taking a life in the line of duty.

Throughout history the sixth commandment 'you shall not kill' (Deut 5.17) has been a stumbling block to many who seek the will of God. Yet the original Hebrew confirms that a more accurate translation is, 'you shall not murder', i.e. killing on our own behalf.

Nevertheless, this is still a moral dilemma for service personnel. Provided they have acted within the law and according to conscience (if a law is evil, as some are, to act within the law is no defence), Christians who find themselves in the extreme position of having to take life will have acted justly.

The concept of the 'just war' is a mid-way position between extreme pacifist ('peace at any price') and the extreme patriot ('my country right or wrong'). In scripture, peace is frequently shown as being the outcome of righteousness, which brings honour to a nation (Proverbs 14-34).

Our attitude therefore should be one of 'righteousness at any cost, and not peace at any price'. In such a context, a member of the Defence Forces can most certainly be a true Christian, and a good soldier.
